Louis Roach Ends 50 Years' Service As Railroad Man

Hoffman Street Resident and Engineer Pilots His Locomotive on Last Run Today

Engineer 40 Years

Began His Career in Local Roundhouse; Became a Fireman

His return home from work after a final run on the West Shore railroad today will mark the end of a half century of service as a railroad man, for Engineer Louis Roach of 37 Hoffman street.

Mr. Roach left his home today on schedule to pilot engine 6663 in the local railroad yard as he had done for many days in his long period of service, but today he was to handle the throttle for the last time, and such an occasion after 50 years on the one line, is one experienced by few men of his calling.

Very Well Known

The veteran railroadman in his long period of service, traveled thousands of miles hauling thousands of freight cars and various trains in regular runs on the main line and in local switching operations. His work is described by fellow workmen as always efficient and capable and he was widely known among employees of the line.

Atlanta, Aug. 31 (AP)—"Let me see your social security number," said a pretty receptionist at a Red Cross office today. The applicant, a young man, started pulling it off. "Say," cried Miss Bledsoe, in a bit of a fuster, "what are you doing?" "My social security number," the youth replied, "is tattooed on my back."

Italy Divides Her Army Into Halves; New Slant on Crisis

Crown Prince Umberto and Marshal Graziani Head Divisions; No Reason Is Given Out

'Abuse' Is Feared

Italy Fears Poland Now Is 'Abusing' Germany's Patience

Rome, Aug. 31 (AP)—Division of the Italian army into two parts, respectively commanded by Crown Prince Umberto and Marshal Rodolfo Graziani was announced today.

No explanation was given for the brief order made known over the air to Italians.

Umberto has been inspector of infantry and a member of the army general staff. Graziani, next to Marshal Pietro Badoglio, was Italy's principal Ethiopian war commander and succeeded Badoglio as viceroy of Ethiopia.

Crisis Spreads

The Fascist press contended today that Europe's crisis had spread from the German-Polish dispute over Danzig and the corridor to the vastly wider question of giving Germany and Italy their share of the world's wealth.

At the same time, Fascists expressed fear that Polish action might precipitate war at any given moment by "abusing Germany's patience."

Defense Measures

Italy meanwhile went ahead with defense measures. While civilians were deprived of coffee, as that commodity was reserved for the troops, it was announced that if war comes there would be enough bread for everyone.

It was said that this year's wheat crop had been sufficient to meet national needs and that, in addition, the government had recently purchased a considerable amount of wheat from abroad as a reserve.

Despite the bold show being made in official propaganda, both in stressing Italy's preparedness for war and asking for a general revision of European order, reliable sources said Premier Mussolini was striving to moderate Chancellor Hitler's demands. They thought it more likely than ever that Mussolini would make a conciliatory move for a peace conference rather than see war come.

A large number of army promotions was announced, including the creation of 83 new generals.

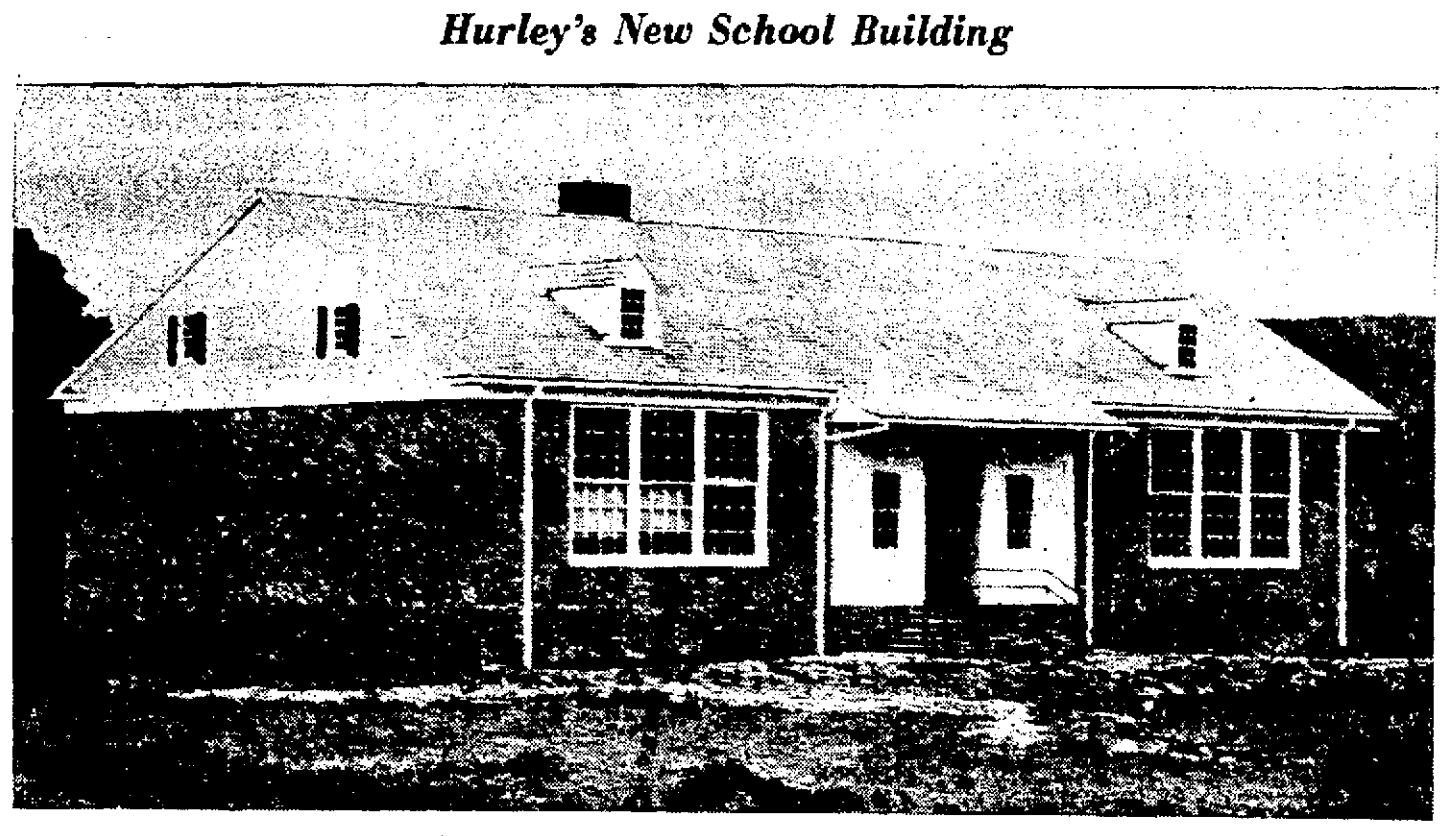

The effect of Italy's arms and autarky programs on living costs was shown in latest government statistics which showed costs for July about 33 per cent higher than in September, 1935, when Italy embarked on the Ethiopian adventure which was the starting point of her present foreign policy.

Berlin, Aug. 31 (AP)—Six men were killed and a number of mail bags burned when the German Berlin-London night mail plane crashed shortly after taking off from Hanover last night. The dead were all crew members. The plane was named "Karl Hochmuth."

Planes to England

Los Angeles, Aug. 31 (AP)—Some 70 bombing planes built in this area will be shipped within the next several days to England and France. Nearly half were due to start for Liverpool today aboard the Furness liner Indian Prince.

Hurley's fine new school building is completed and is being completely equipped with new furniture and furnishings preparatory for the opening of school on Tuesday, September 5. The building is of brick construction and has four class rooms and an auditorium. Albert E. Milliken was the architect; Gustav Ellison, general contractor; Hurley Construction Company, plumbing and heating; Michael Gallagher, electrical contractor. The lawn and the roadway are being placed in shape and will be ready for the opening of school next week. The Hurley district authorized a bond issue of $40,000, but only $38,000 of the bonds were issued. A balance from the money actually raised also is expected. Public inspection will be held Saturday from 2 to 4 p. m.

President Plans No Further Move For World Peace

High Official Gives His Opinion on How FDR Feels; Action Based on Psychology

Washington, Aug. 31 (AP)—President Roosevelt was described by a high official today as believing that for the time being there is no further move which he can make for peace.

The government therefore will keep its attitude of watchful waiting, it was said, in the hope that the diplomatic exchanges going on between London and Berlin will open a way toward settlement.

Officials here viewed the European situation as follows: It is better psychologically because the nations are talking, writing notes and sending ambassadors.

But the issues still remain. They may have been narrowed by the exchanges between Great Britain and Germany, or they may have been broadened into the possibility of a wider settlement than merely the German-Polish problem.

Hitler has made strong demands on Poland that will be hard to meet and equally hard to back down from.

The President has received no reply to the appeal which he sent to Adolf Hitler a week ago. If one is received, officials said, it is likely that President Roosevelt will reply immediately so as to keep discussion open.

King Vittorio Emanuele, replying last night to the appeal of Mr. Roosevelt sent him last Wednesday, said Italy was doing "whatever is possible to bring about a peace with justice."

The monarch said he had transmitted the appeal to his government immediately, and he expressed his gratitude for Mr. Roosevelt's interest.

Big Crowd Cheers Recall Petition

San Antonio Folk Give Six Reasons Against Maverick

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 31 (AP)—A crowd of 2,500 persons last night shouted approval of a petition seeking recall of Mayor Maury Maverick and Commissioner Louis Lipscomb as speakers blamed the officials for a riot which broke up a communist meeting last Friday night.

U.S. War Department Rules On Shad Nets, Poles in River

Modification of regulations governing the placing of shad nets and poles in the Hudson river was under consideration today by the War Department, Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman has been informed.

A public hearing on the contemplated changes will be held on Wednesday, September 13, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning in the Army Building, 39 Whitehall street, New York city. Navigation interests and public officials are specially invited to participate in the meeting.

The present law prescribes that "to prevent undue obstruction to navigation of the Hudson river, special permission must be obtained before placing any shad poles, nets or pounds" with in 1,000 feet of the line of a ferry, or within 600 feet of the normal line from the center of the channel to any point of a dock used for navigation or to the mouth of a navigable body of water.

Special provisions are made for shad fishing west of Manhattan Island to Dobbs Ferry and above the latter place. In all other sections of the river, poles may be placed without special permission, provided they do not obstruct navigation. Poles, nets and pounds must be removed by June 30.

Actors Threaten Shutdown Strike

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—Actors' unions at odds in a bitter jurisdictional fight threatened today to call a strike next week that would close theatres on Broadway, movie studios in Hollywood and possibly darken film houses throughout the country.

Eleven unions affiliated with the Associated Actors and Artists of America, parent union of actor organizations, will hold meetings in New York and Hollywood on Sunday to vote on a strike to force the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees (stagehands) to revoke its charter to the American Federation of Actors and clear out of the actors' field.

The showdown in the dispute is expected to come Monday, Labor Day, when Sophie Tucker, president of the American Federation of Actors and self-styled "last of the red hot mamas," is slated to appear at the Imperial Theatre here for a rehearsal of "Leave It to Me." The musical is scheduled to reopen Monday night after a midsummer layoff.

The cast, at the direction of Actors Equity, (a 4-A unit) is expected to refuse to work with Miss Tucker, who was suspended after her organization obtained a charter from the stagehands' union.

The stagehands have threatened to walk out if Miss Tucker is replaced by an understudy, and to call out their members on Broadway and possibly their projectionists in movie houses over the country.

Miss Tucker, 30 years an actress, declared today she would be "on the job" Monday.

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 31 (AP)—The sarcophagus of King Tut-Ankh-Amen and the priceless jewels and furniture found in his tombs were taken from Egypt's national museum today, packed in 40 cases, and hidden in bomb-proof cellars 30 feet underground to protect them from possible war-time destruction.

Mobilizes Navy

(By The Associated Press)

Great Britain today ordered complete mobilization of her mighty navy as her preparations to be ready in the event of war matched strides with her efforts to save peace.

She also called up the remainder of her regular army reserve and supplementary reserve. It meant thousands of additional men called to the colors.

Before taking the step Britain had ordered the "precautionary" removal of children, women, invalids and the aged from dangerous metropolitan areas.

At the same time, in Berlin, Adolf Hitler was reported planning to draw Soviet Russia as a trump card in attempting to convince the Poles they should go to Berlin to negotiate his demands on them.

Not Broken Off

In Berlin authorized Germans said tonight that a "pause" had come about in crisis negotiations with Great Britain but that negotiations "are not broken off."

Announcement of full mobilization of the British fleet coming on top of Poland's extension of mobilization yesterday, these persons indicated, were at least partly responsible for the "pause."

As a result, it was uncertain whether British questions, put to Adolf Hitler by the British government in a memorandum handed to the Fuehrer last night, would be answered.

Oral Indication

This morning it was said that the questions would be answered. Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, however, it was then said, had given Sir Neville Henderson, the British ambassador, an oral indication of what the reply would be.

Asked whether any new moves were to be expected as a result of the "pause," this afternoon's informant said:

"We have laid our cards on the table, whether the British will come forward with any more suggestions we do not know."

In Paris, Premier Daladier called his cabinet in an urgent meeting after he had conferred with the British ambassador, Sir Eric Phipps, at the war ministry. The day had seen long steps toward full war preparedness in France, too.

Appears to Win

Infant Undergoes Major Operation as Intestines Are Placed in Body

Colusa, Calif., Aug. 31 (AP)—Eight-day-old Robert Reister today appeared to be winning his fight for life after an operation which places his intestinal tract inside his tiny body.

His condition at birth rivaled that of Maria Corazon, the famous "outside heart" baby of Manila. Robert's heart was in its normal place, but his entire intestinal tract was outside his body, functioning through the neck of the tiny membranous sac that encased it.

Dr. Joseph T. Tillotson, superintendent and chief surgeon of Colusa Memorial Hospital, made a small incision and replaced the organs in their normal position shortly after the baby was born. He disclosed today. The Manila "outside heart" baby died.

Hickory, Dickory, Dock
Kenton, O. (P)—The old nursery rhyme which goes "Hickory, dickory, dock," has a new meaning to Harry Small. Hunting rats on his farm, Small reported that a large one became confused, and scrambled up his pants leg.

BRINGING THE OLD WORLD CRISIS TO THE NEW

European geography, a prime factor in the present crisis in which many nations in an area smaller than the United States are at odds, is brought close to home in this map which superimposes the Old World's capitals on the United States. Both maps are the same scale with airline distances noted. Thus it can be seen that American airlines flying regular schedules across Europe could span the principal capitals in a single day. Modern warplanes are even faster. Residents of Berlin and Warsaw are closer to each other than those of Des Moines and Indianapolis. Note also that London and Paris both fall within the state of Colorado.

Flashes of Life

Hartford, Conn. — Wives who are proud of their skill with a rolling pin will get a chance at the Hartford county 4-H Club fair to win prizes for direct hits. Agent William L. Harris, Jr., said a dummy man would be the target.

Pay, Fiddler, Pay

San Francisco.—The same violin repertoire that earns Dave Rubinoff thousands of dollars on the radio, stage and screen won and lost him $1.49 as a blind, street fiddler. Rubinoff bet Chief of Police William J. Quinn he could collect $10 in an hour, disguised as a musical beggar. He failed—then had to turn over his meager collection as a part of the wager.

Strange Goings-on

Mankato, Minn.—Among the matters up for solemn consideration by the North Mankato city council recently were:
A sewer was built, running the wrong way.
A doe and a fawn roamed the streets.
Dr. H. J. Nilson, health officer, said his salary was too high and volunteered to take a cut.
The last one really stunned the aldermen.

The girl who waits for the right man to turn up very often gets left.

Jewish Veterans Vote To Organize Youth Group

Miami, Fla., Aug. 31 (P)—Jewish war veterans of the United States voted yesterday to organize youth movement units to combat the alleged persecution of members of their race by Nazi and Fascist groups.

Delegates to the 44th annual encampment approved the action despite the opposition of some leading veterans who contended the National Youth Association would conflict with other Jewish youth movements.
Dr. Harry Rosenblatt of Philadelphia said Jews had been dragged from their automobiles and beaten in West Philadelphia, "where there is very little police protection." He declared other Jewish youth movements had failed to prevent such attacks and added, "we are 100 per cent against hoodlums and we are purely defensive."
Sol Rubin of New Rochelle, N. Y., told the veterans that if they did not supervise the activities of young Jews that "our youth might go out half cocked and do something provocative and would cause Jewry at large to suffer for these ill-considered acts."

WATCH OUT FOR CHILDREN

The school bell often means the death knell for some child. For two months children have not been seen on their regular day-in and day-out trek to school, and motorists have relaxed from their customary "school time" driving caution. Now that school will begin again next week, the watch must be resumed. The streets will be crowded with children at certain hours. Many new faces will be among them—the little tots just starting to school and many unfamiliar with traffic conditions. An extra sharp lookout for these children should be kept.

Each year automobiles take a toll of child life that is alarming and needless. The schools are doing their part to teach the child care and caution on the streets and its amazing to see how carefully the children conduct themselves as a result. Motorists can well take a lesson from this training and exercise equal or greater care in driving, especially near schools, and the accident records among school children will take a most gratifying drop.

Gains in the number of traffic deaths and injuries in the state during July, over those occurring in the same month, last year, have been reported by Commissioner Mealey.

Accidents totalling 6,782 showed an increase of 524, in comparison with those of July, 1938. Fatalities, numbering 230, increased 6, and injuries, totalling 9,394, increased 789.

A comparison of the statistical summaries for July, 1938, and July, 1939, disclosed a reduction of six fatal night accidents and 18 week-end accidents.

Increases were noted in the following:
 An increase of two pedestrian fatalities.
 An increase of fifteen fatal daytime accidents.

An increase of three fatal "railroad crossing" accidents.

An increase of twenty-two fatal "open country" accidents.

Discussing the possible continuance of the upward trend, Commissioner Mealey said: "It depends upon the driver and the pedestrian. The driver must come to a realization that unless he drives skillfully, carefully and at reasonable speeds, he must be adjudged unfit to drive and be ruled off the streets and highways. The persistent traffic offender can expect and deserves no sympathy.

"The pedestrian must learn to assume his part of the obligation by walking sensibly. His is a more selfish interest. He cannot hope to win in a collision with a motor vehicle. Common sense alone dictates that he walk carefully."

JAPAN

Japan today looks like a split personality. It is ruled not by a unified government but by rival groups representing the army and navy. The army diplomats have been trying for a year to perfect a military alliance between Japan and the German-Italian axis, but the naval diplomats so far have foiled them. This internal dissension is an evidence of serious weakness in Japan.

Meanwhile Uncle Sam has had a hard time getting along with either of the Japanese factions. The formation of the Russo-German pact may serve to show the Japanese people where their true friends may be found, if they will adopt a reasonable and peaceful course.

PREPARATION FOR FIRE

"Preparation for fire fighting will often mean the difference between success and ruin," says a release of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

The release deals with the immensely important subject of adequate preparation on the part of fire departments. As it points out, "It has not been uncommon in fire service to consider fire stations only as block houses or outposts, housing men and equipment which would go into action somewhat blindly when called by an alarm of fire." And, when this is the circumstance, the fire department, no matter how well trained and equipped, is obviously at a serious disadvantage, knowing little or nothing of what it is likely to encounter.

When fire fighting men warfare, must be based upon the most exact knowledge of the behavior of the enemy. And, to achieve that, every member of the fire department must know general conditions of mercantile and manufacturing areas, and the locations of theatres, churches, and other crowded places. Plans must be made as to the best and most efficient method of approach, both in bringing equipment to the fire and in fighting it—confusion and congestion waste precious minutes, and may be the cause of tremendous unnecessary losses of life and property. Effective inspections of buildings must be made periodically, taking into consideration all factors involving life hazards for occupants and firemen.

What is true for urban fire departments is likewise true for rural. Country fire fighting units should completely survey the territory they serve, and know exactly the location of farms, roads, fields, etc.

And here is a vital point—fire fighting groups which haven't made such surveys should repair their failure and do it immediately. Fire doesn't always wait until tomorrow.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.) WHAT MAKES YOUNGSTERS SLUMP?

At many preparatory schools there is a physical examination at beginning of the term and those with a poor posture—standing or sitting—are put in a special class and given special exercises to help them to keep the body erect. All the teachers make it a point to check a boy who assumes a "slouched" or stooped position.

There is always the question as to whether the poor posture causes the symptoms of fatigue, indigestion, constipation and other conditions, or whether these conditions cause the poor posture. However, getting boys (and girls) to attain an erect carriage needs more than just speaking to them. Dr. Alvia Brockway, Los Angeles, in Hygieia, says, "Instead of constantly exhorting their children to stand up straight, parents should attack the underlying causes of poor posture as well as provide the child with definite posture training. The child who slumps generally does so because, for some reason, he is fatigued. In some instances this reason may be that he is not getting enough rest to supply his needs for energy. Too many picture shows or radio programs in the evening frequently interfere with proper rest. The tired attitude may be due to enlarged adenoids, diseased tonsils or sinusitis, faulty vision or constipation."

I believe these two explanations of faulty posture—lack of rest and infection somewhere in the body—account for the majority of cases. The thought then is for parents and teachers to study the daily habits of the "slumping" youngster, because early correction will prevent "permanent" curves in the back. We all have four curves in the back—back of neck (forward), at shoulder blades (backward—round back), at small of back (forward—sway back) and at big muscles on which we sit (forward). When a youngster slumps he increases these curves and if he slumps long enough this increase in the curves will become permanent. If your youngster slumps, have him examined by your physician and dentist and watch his daily habits as to rest, food, and exercise. Teach him to stand and sit tall, always.

Dr. Brockway advises that in severe cases, an orthopedic specialist should be consulted.

Yellowstone National Park, Wyo. (AP)—How many gallons to a bucket of oats?

That's the favorite question that comes from automobile-minded visitors in Yellowstone National Park who get out from behind their steering wheels long enough for a trail trip through this national playground.

Rangers don't know the exact answer, but they may figure it out at the end of the season, when their work slackens. As the end of the riding season neared, they said park visitors have bounced 12,563 miles on saddle leather and that's enough mileage to burn up a lot of oats.

Boulder, Colo. (AP)—A prisoner captured by Sheriff George Riphart had a set of burglar's tools in his possession, with a bottle that appeared to be filled with nitroglycerine.

The bottle remained in the sheriff's office for 24 hours while officers speculated about its contents. One of them suggested the sheriff should send it to chemists for an analysis.

"I know a quicker way to find out about it," said the sheriff. And he took it to a remote spot, attached a cap, lit the fuse, and sped away to watch results.

In a moment the stuff exploded, blowing a hole four feet deep and four feet wide in the earth.

Know Your Law

By CARROLL E. MEALEY
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

(Editor's Note: Below are presented some questions and answers on the subject of the Vehicle and Traffic Law and rules of the road. Readers are invited to submit questions to Information Service, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Albany, N. Y.)

Q.—Is a person who moves into this state with non-resident license plates allowed any time in which to obtain New York plates?

A.—Yes. The Vehicle and Traffic Law was amended this year to provide that when a non-resident becomes a resident of this state, he shall be entitled for 30 days to the same exemption from registering his vehicle in this state as he would have enjoyed had he remained a non-resident.

Q.—Does that rule also apply to drivers' licenses?

A.—Yes. Thirty days are also allowed during which the motorist may use his non-resident license.

Q.—How it is possible to determine where a person's legal residence is if, for example, he has two residences—one in New York, the other outside this state?

A.—Residence, under the Vehicle and Traffic Law, is a question of fact. A person who lives outside the state, but is gainfully employed here, and does not return to his home outside the state at least once a week, is considered a resident of New York state for purposes of registration and licensing.

Early Settlement of Mexican-American Controversy of Strategic Importance From National Defense Standpoint
 By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 31.—If war breaks out, a British blockade would be imposed on the export of oil from Mexico to Germany and Italy, and the question of recovering the properties of American oil companies recently seized by the Mexican government would become a matter of paramount importance both the United States and the large navies of the world.

Mexico could not afford to have her oil wells tied up because of inability to continue to supply the axis powers with the confiscated oil as at present, and the American government could not afford to let the Mexican supply go unused.

Hence, an early settlement of the Mexican-American controversy becomes of strategic importance from a national defense standpoint.

Thus, while the quantities of oil suitable for fuel purposes in Mexico are relatively small when compared to the total requirements of the United States, new equipment such as pipelines, storage tanks, refineries and facilities for deep draft vessels could take care of a much larger volume of crude oil than at present. This could be done quickly if the American or Mexican government would guarantee the capital investment.

The effect on the whole western hemisphere must be far-reaching when nations east of Gibraltar are cut off from their normal sources of supply. Also it is considered wasteful to drain the valuable gasoline-producing reserves when other fuel oil sources can be made available. Nor would it be practicable, according to oil experts, to draw supplies of fuel oil from California because of the long voyage through the canal. Likewise, the west coast oil is needed for industry there and naval uses in the Pacific.

The national defense policies of the United States, being so closely related to what might become available from the Mexican oil wells, are being re-examined in the light of the Mexican controversy. There has been a protracted controversy over the seizure of the oil properties. The department of state has insisted that, while Mexico has a right to confiscate, she must pay for what she seizes. This is the oldest of rules in international law. Mexico, on the other hand, has been evading the issue of compensation by declaring she will pay with the oil taken from the ground. The Mexican condition is that the subsoil rights belong to the government. Such a definition of "compensation" is not only unacceptable to the American government, but, if a value were placed on the subsoil rights, the Mexican financial resources would not be sufficient to pay for them.

The question of sub-soil rights has long been a subject of litigation, and the Mexican government in the past has accepted the American interpretation, and her own supreme court has at one time upheld the view that the sub-soil rights went originally with the properties. Attempts to modify the constitution to take away future sub-soil rights and apply the rule retroactively have met with opposition from owners of the properties and from foreign governments generally.

In a problem of this sort, the American government can argue with Mexico indefinitely, or it can exert economic pressure. There is already a sentiment in Congress in favor of cutting off all purchases by the United States of foreign silver, and this action would seriously disturb Mexico's economy. Many members of Congress feel that Mexico has not played ball fairly with the American owners of property, who invested their money on the assumption that the rules of international law about confiscation would be obeyed.

At the next session of Congress, when the whole subject of national defense will be uppermost in the minds of members of Congress, there will be no disposition to haggle about technical questions such as are being raised by Mexico, but the problem will doubtless be faced realistically. In other words, if Mexico prevents the United States from having an adequate fuel supply and continues to ignore the basic rules of compensation for property seized, the relations between the two countries on an economic basis, which have hitherto been friendly, will necessarily become strained.

A simple formula for a partnership in the properties of the oil companies as between the Mexican government and American owners, with a provision for American control and management, has been suggested in private negotiations, but without success. Recent events in Europe should tend now to accelerate a settlement.

Rotary Speaker Says Personality Man's Best Asset

"Adventures in Personality" as the theme of Harper G. Smyth of Cleveland, Ohio, in an enlightening and interesting talk, which was interspersed with humorous remarks and anecdotes, at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club held Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. A philosopher with wide experience in theatricals and a lecturer and traveler, his talk was listened to with marked attention. It is possible to develop personality, Mr. Smyth declared, explaining that by an adventure in personality he meant the experience of coming to grips with life, a statement that the wise man stocks his environment, takes stock of conditions and of his own equipment and acts accordingly. His success will depend upon what he does, what he takes and what he gives. He exhorted his auditors not to place price tags upon themselves, that was what others were doing. Personality, he pointed out, is a man's greatest asset and if you do not develop it you are likely to remain unidentified in the world. This business of living, he asserted, emotions play an important part for good or for bad. Among the chief trouble signals he mentioned fatigue, lack of self-control and worry. Speaking of environment, the speaker declared that we are not victims of environment. Life is not a matter of chance, luck or fate. To succeed one must have maximum acceptability. This does not mean that one must be a good showman, but that one must show evidences of character and concern for others. It is not what we have that counts, but what we do with what we have. Preceding his talk, Mr. Smyth led in stunt singing, the members of the club joining in the songs. Mr. Smyth was introduced by Walter Elston.

Visitors present included Lieut. Edward Gallagher, U. S. N., retired, and Sam Scudder, Sr. Rotarian William Hinkley of Catskill attended the luncheon.

False Alarm for Raid
London, Aug. 31 (AP).—The explosion of a hydrogen cylinder at a balloon barrage station on the outskirts of London and the screaming of fire sirens early this morning sent scores of householders into the streets in their night clothes in the belief an air raid was on. No one was hurt and fire which broke out was quickly controlled.

Camp to Present River Cavalcade

Tracing local history through 19 episodes the campers at the Pioneer Youth Camp will present a Hudson River Cavalcade at the camp on Route 213 near Rifton, Sunday afternoon and evening September 3.

Starting at 4 p. m. a series of six scenes will trace the story of a chief of the Esopus Indian tribes exiled by the Dutch for efforts to protect his people's lands. Dutchess county scenes will then be shown revolving around the Irishman, William Prendergast, and his Quaker wife, Mehitable Wing.

The Down Rent Wars of the 1840's will include a band of "Calico Indians" and the dramatic plea for the defense of Dr. Boughton in the tin horn rebellion.

Four scenes will carry the Delaware and Hudson Canal through 50 years of its history, from the time when Farmer John Van Dort sold the company a right of way to the bitter day when his eldest son leaves the canal for the railroad.

At 7:45 o'clock a play, "Last Days of Old Rifton," will be presented indoors. It deals with the carpet factory in Rifton, closed by a strike before the old village was flooded by the waters of the Sturgeon Pool Dam. Five scenes will show authentic characters and incidents of the time.

The program will conclude with a two-reel moving picture, "Webb's Sign Up," a story of the Hudson River brick yards. Like the Cavalcade episodes, the movie was written, acted and produced by Pioneer Youth Campers and staff.

All of the afternoon scenes will be presented out of doors or in the camp's social hall in the event of rain.

A collection will be taken for the benefit of the St. Remy Volunteer Fire Department. Guests are asked to bring supper and eat on the camp's grounds. Coffee and sandwiches will be on sale.

The Cavalcade is a part of the Labor Day week-end commemoration of Pioneer Youth's 15th anniversary the celebration of which commenced in May with a broadcast by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt over a nation-wide hook-up. Guests for the week-end include representatives of trade unions, schools and organizations of parents interested in Pioneer Youth.

Horse and buggy days were never like this. An automobile driven by a New Yorker struck a four-ton watering trough at Delhi throwing it for a 27-foot loss. The driver received 60 days in the county jail and a $30 fine.

German Ship Takes Sudden Leave of Port

Everett, Wash., Aug. 31 (AP)—The German motorship Portland, held here by its skipper since Sunday because of the European crisis, left port suddenly at 11 p. m., last night, presumably for Portland.

The secrecy that shrouded the activities of a squad of customs officers and Coast Guardsmen aboard the vessel earlier in the evening was not lifted by her departure.

Several of her passengers had left the ship after having been virtual prisoners in their own land. The first passenger to leave the ship, Mrs. Mary Coons of Sacramento, Calif., said the Hamburg-American Line would pay the passengers' railroad fares home, which was California for most of them.

How many passengers left the vessel was undisclosed. Hubert Bode, northwest manager of Sudden and Christensen, Seattle agency for the Hamburg-American Line, contradicted the report that any passengers had been released from the ship. He said that issue might be settled today.

Passengers leaving the Portland here would make the ship subject to $200 fine each under a law forbidding carrying of passengers from one American port to another in a foreign ship.

At Seattle, Assistant Collector of Customs Roy L. Ballinger said the Portland's owners already had on file the customary "term bond" required by the customs, and that penalties of $200 per passenger could be deducted from the bond.

Cannon Used as Burglar Alarm Kills Park Man

North Bergen, N. J., Aug. 31 (AP)—A small salute cannon, rigged as a burglar alarm in a shooting gallery by William Seidler, 71, superintendent of Schutzen Park, a German-American amusement center, killed him last night when it fired and sent a tamping wedge through his abdomen as he opened the gallery door.

The cannon was set by a string device to discharge when the door was opened. Police Chief John Simmon said Seidler formerly had two such cannons hooked up to fire if anyone opened the door, but a thief broke in through a window recently, cut the cord of one and carried it away.

Seidler, father of three children, lived at the park. He was accompanied by John Wrede of 8917 Jamaica avenue, Queens, N. Y., a member of the Plattdeutsche Volksfest Verein when the shooting occurred. They were entering the gallery, Simmon said, to obtain record for the Verein's shooting committee.

First Calf Born To Breeding Ring

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 31.—The first calf to be born in the first artificial breeding association in New York state has arrived—a 97-pound heifer that came at about sunrise on Wednesday, August 31. The mother of the "test tube" calf, a three-year-old Holstein, is registered in the books of the L. Posch Segis Lass and is owned by Charles Bates, near Trumansburg in Seneca county. Because the offspring arrived at about sunrise, the Pioneer Cooperative Dairy Cattle Breeding Association will suggest naming her Sunrise Pioneer Lass. Mr. Bates, who operates a large dairy farm, has five other cows registered in the breeding association which are due to freshen during the next few weeks. The dam of Posch Segis Lass was bred through the association at the same time, but was beaten by her daughter for the honors of bearing the first calf in the association since it was organized about a year ago. Dairymen in the six counties of Tompkins, Cortland, Tioga, Broome, Cayuga, and Seneca, are members of the artificial breeding circuit which was organized in September, 1938. The association has three Holstein bulls in service, all proven sires, and is now contemplating the addition of Guernsey sires, provided 500 cows can be obtained for the service.

'Ideal Flower' For U. S. Found

Developed After 46 Years' Work by Burbank Kin In California.

SAN FRANCISCO.—After 46 years of searching and hybridizing of flowers, David Burpee, cousin of the late Luther Burbank, believes he has at last developed the "ideal American flower."

Burpee, whose flower ranch is in Santa Barbara county, comes from a long line of flower experts. Besides his relationship to the late Luther Burbank, his father also was a distinguished hybridist.

"I was only 15," he said, "when my father offered me a prize of $1,000 if I would develop a yellow sweet pea. I never earned that $1,000, but my work along that line started me in my search for a flower that would survive the heat and cold of all parts of the United States and have at the same time sufficient beauty to make it the country's ideal flower."

It's the Marigold.

It was 30 years later, he said, that he finally found it. "It was the marigold, but it took years and years of further search and hybridizing to perfect it to what I wanted. In the first place, it had many serious disadvantages, the most serious of which was its odor. This, I discovered, came from little oil sacks on the under side of the leaves."

Burpee then began a world-wide search for a marigold that did not have this disagreeable scent. This was carried on for several years, and finally abandoned.

"Within a month after I quit my search," Burpee said, "I received a letter from a missionary in China who had discovered an odorless marigold. I had him rush me some seeds and planted them at once on my California ranch."

The first flower was small and was sterile. But there was no odor. "In the next one, however, a mutation occurred and produced a flower with female reproductive parts, but no male parts," he said.

Crossed With French Flower.

"I then conceived the idea of crossing the French marigold—a small red flower with male reproductive parts only—with the large African marigold, which was yellow."

"This was done by planting a five-acre field in alternate rows of French and African marigolds and then putting 600,000 bees in the field."

The result, Burpee said, is a beautiful red and gold hybrid. They have been flown across the Atlantic to see if they would stand the change of temperatures and climate with complete success, and he is confident that he now has the ideal flower that will thrive in all parts of the United States.

Siam Changes Its Name; Becomes 'Land of Free'

BANGKOK, SIAM.—Siam, one of the few remaining independent kingdoms in Asia has changed its name to Thai.

An official proclamation issued by the government inaugurated the change. The recommendation by the Siamese cabinet that the change be made had been approved by the assembly of the people's representatives.

Thai, meaning "free," is the old name for the country, and it emphasizes the emergence of the Siamese race from the fusion of the Lao-Tai and Khmer races. The name Siam comes from the word "Sayam" which Siamese Nationalists, who now control the country, say originated in Cambodia, once part of the kingdom but now within the boundaries of French Indo-China.

The change to Thai means that Siam is now known as "Land of the Free," which is in keeping with the feelings of the Nationalists.

Long Idle Fire Engine Misses Big Opportunity

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The fire engine at the Buffalo Municipal airport waited for five years to answer an alarm, and when it sounded, arrived too late to be of any use. A shanty, used as a storehouse by the WPA, which is modernizing the airport, burned to the ground before the apparatus arrived.

Loss was set at $75, which included a quantity of oakum rope and filled lunch pails belonging to 39 WPA workers.

Llama Follows Him. ST. LOUIS.—Mary had her lamb, but Gene Nichols, attendant at the municipal zoo here, has his llama. Nichols has cared for the llama since shortly after it was born, raising it on a bottle. Now it follows him patiently wherever he goes. He calls it Henry.

Fifteen Perfect Years. HARTSVILLE, S. C.—Miss Eloise Hayes, of Latta, set a record when she took her bachelor of arts degree from Coker college. She had completed 15 consecutive years in school without missing a class.

Rome Plans Subway to Fair. ROME.—A subway to accommodate 82,000 passengers an hour is being constructed between Rome and the site of its 1942 World's fair.

What is considered to be the world's largest bending press is a machine which bends steel girders and plates up to 8 inches thick and 40 feet long as though they were so much cardboard. The huge mechanism is equipped with two hydraulic rams of nickel-chromium cast iron, each weighing 23 tons. Approximately 2,000 tons of metals were used in fabricating the enormous press.

Present for Hitler

Lt. Comm. Allan R. Wurtele, (above) U. S. N. retired, now a sugar planter, came forward in New Roads, La., with a plan and $5,000 to start a contribution to buy the Polish Corridor and Danzig as a gift for Chancellor Hitler and thereby avert a war.

'This Isn't a Holdup,' Judge Tells Defendant

YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.—"This isn't a hold-up," murmured Judge Harry Hoffman to a defendant, who held up both hands while being sworn in for trial on a speeding charge. "Just your right hand, please," the judge asked as the defendant persisted. "This isn't a hold-up," he repeated. "Oh, isn't it?" the defendant muttered. The defendant was fined $10 and costs.

Nurserymen to Visit Experiment Station

Geneva, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Program in the development of a satisfactory dwarf fruit tree for the home garden and of a semi-dwarf type of tree suitable for commercial planting will be shown to members of the New York State Nurserymen's Association when they gather at the Experiment Station here for a field day on Thursday, September 21.

The nurserymen will also view a number of studies under way on the station farm on methods of plant propagation, the use of "hormones," tests with rootstocks of various types, trials with peat moss, and recent findings on the control of insect pests of nursery plants. Progress reports are made on many of these studies from time to time, but it is expected that first hand inspection of the work in the field will prove of even greater interest to the visitor.

Fruit Testers Also Meeting

In addition to the special nursery investigations, an opportunity will be afforded the nurserymen to see many of the new fruits originated on the Station grounds, some of which are now gaining considerable attention from fruit growers. The New York State Fruit Testing Association will hold its twenty-first annual meeting and exhibit of new fruits at the Station on the same day. This meeting always attracts a large number of fruit growers, thus the nurserymen will have an opportunity to discuss with growers the probable planting demands for many of the new fruits.

Further details of the program for the field day may be obtained by writing to Dr. H. B. Tukey, who is in charge of the nursery investigations at the Station and secretary of the association.

PARLIAMENTARY RULES CALL FOR SANDBAGS

Great Britain's famous Houses of Parliament in London looked like this after huge piles of sandbags had been stacked outside to absorb the shock of any possible aerial bombs. The situation remained tense and evacuation of civilians from the city continued as diplomatic circles said that the recent exchange of secret notes between Germany and Great Britain had failed to produce anything approaching a solution of the European crisis. This picture was cabled to New York from London.

Of 2,000 Indian children under 18 years of age in the state, approximately 1,602 attend public schools. Burton H. H. Balknap, state supervisor of Indian education has announced.

the most talked about shoes in town...

The Inquiring Reporter

THESE ARE THE ANSWERS given our Inquiring Reporter by three of the thousands of women interviewed recently in National Shoe stores.

THE QUESTION:

Why do you come to National for your shoes?

Miss Ann Wilson, 249 West Fourteenth Street, New York City, model. "I can always find the style of shoes I'm looking for at National. They have such a wonderful selection. And I know their shoes are fashion-right because I've seen the originals on Fifth Avenue."

Miss Kay Werner, 4031 Third Avenue, Bronx, N. Y., student. "So that I can afford really beautiful shoes. You'd be surprised at the saving in the course of a year. And the difference I save enables me to buy many things I used to do without."

Miss Irene Goldreyer, 88-19-161 St. Jamaica, New York, student. "Because National puts comfort as well as style into its shoes—and that's something you don't often find at such a low price. National's Hand-flex construction is a god-send to us students. Our feet never tire in them."

THERE were excited whispers all about them. People stopped at tables on the way to their own, leaned down, whispered, and through the windows Cecily saw the men down on their knees, the porters with long brooms. Fine, combed the room. She prayed they'd find that which they sought.

"Must be worth ten thousand dollars."

"It couldn't have been stolen..."

"She said the clasp was weak..."

"Did you know that there's a rumor that the reason Lady Rathbone left Mrs. Brewster's suddenly was because she said a valuable diamond pin had been stolen? I told my husband..."

Cecily heard it all.

"Stupid woman to wear a jewel like that to a place like this," Gloria said.

"Why?" Philip asked. "Everybody knows everybody else. If there were any suspicion that it had been stolen, the committee would have gone about it more quietly, searched the guests."

"That sounds reasonable," Jim Penny said. "Why don't we suggest it? Then there won't be any question about it. The men might submit 'to it' without letting the ladies in on it."

"Good idea!" Philip agreed. "It's a nasty business. I'll tell Lochran. Suppose we go in first?"

Gloria said, "Don't be silly, Philip! Mrs. Goodale herself said the clasp was weak. It'll turn up. If you're feeling so energetic you might see if you can snag a waiter. I want some more coffee."

Mrs. Goodale came back, looking haggard under her eyes. Immediately all heads turned toward her.

She stood in the door, holding up her hand. "It's all right, everybody. I'm sorry my carelessness spoiled the party. Please forget that it happened. We're sure it will turn up somehow. Anyway, it's insured. I'm afraid there isn't going to be any more dancing, because the search isn't over and..."

So, the orchestra is moving over to my place and you're all invited!"

Immediately there was a concerted movement as chairs were moved back. As she got up, Cecily saw that the food on Laura's plate was untouched.

Olivia came over to their table. "Children, it's after one. I'm going home but you all go on to Mrs. Goodale's if you wish."

Tony said, "I'm for going home." "So am I, Mother. The edge is off the party."

They all decided to go home. Laura leaned toward Cecily and said in a low voice, "Insurance companies don't pay large sums without making extensive inquiries, do they?"

Cecily shook her head.

Oh, definitely not, she thought. The time that Doug had lost his gold cigarette case given to him on his twenty-first birthday, the place had been over-run with investigators. If they'd do that before paying a two hundred dollar claim, what would they do for one as large as this one must be?

They'd search everybody. They'd question everybody. They'd say, "Exactly who was at that party?" They'd ask if there were any suspicious characters seen about the grounds. They might even tie this up to the Brewster affair.

Nightmares

THEY might learn of the figure on the veranda. Had anyone else seen it? Had anyone heard her call, "It's Cecily?"

All that night she dreamed nightmares. Dreams in which police stood over her menacingly, threatening her with prison. They finger-printed her. They said, "You know all about it and we'll make you talk." And she said, "No! But Laura knows!"

And then in horror of what she had said, she woke up and was unable to sleep the rest of the night.

A sudden thought assailed her. It wasn't like Laura to be secretive. Then why was she? Was Laura being blackmailed? Someone—or some group, had gotten poor little Laura into his clutches. That was why she couldn't talk. What had happened to Laura the night she went to Locke's cabin? Poor girl, she had looked frightened and ill!

Laura had said, "I can't tell you, Cecily. I don't know any more than you do."

Try as she would, Cecily, in spite of all she had seen, couldn't make a villain of Locke. His eyes kept coming between her and the picture of him with horns sprouting from that clear forehead.

Trying to plan her course, Cecily dropped off to sleep. When she woke it was bright morning. She felt under her pillow for her watch and peered at it through sleepy eyes. Ten o'clock!

She swung her legs out of bed and, not stopping for her exercises, washed and dressed hurriedly. She wouldn't even stop for breakfast. She felt she must be off to the shop, to Laura.

She put on a knitted dress, ran a comb through her hair and snatched up the polo coat she had worn the night before. The house was still sleeping when she let herself out. The first deep breath of morning air made her feel dizzy. She was hungry but she could get something to eat after she had seen Laura.

Hunger and lack of sleep made her feel cold. The late September air had a sharp wintry tang. It bit at her eyes, making them smart. She tightened the belt of her coat, pulled the collar up around her throat and plunged her hands deep in the pockets.

Like the answer to some wireless message tapping at her mind, she slowed her steps, and her right hand in the pocket of her coat felt around in the depths, finding something unfamiliar.

She knew what it was before she drew her handkerchief out. Knew instantly what that cold, hard substance was.

Mrs. Goodale's necklace lay there bunched in the emerald flashed a cold green fire.

As though it were fire, Cecily thrust it back in her pocket.

Solution

LEFT foot. Right foot. Mrs. Goodale didn't lose her necklace. Left foot, right foot. Hard little marching steps increasing their pace. The necklace was a leaden weight in her pocket. On her mind. In her heart. Don't walk so fast. When you come to the end of your journey, you'll have to do something. There, Cecily struck a snag. She didn't know what to do about it. Take it back to Mrs. Goodale and try to explain how it got in her pocket?

Cecily opened the door to her shop, fumbling the key in the lock because her fingers were stiff.

She took her hat off and ran her fingers through her hair. There was a fire laid in the hearth. She touched a match to it and tried to warm herself before the blaze, hoping with the heat to melt the bands that bound her brain.

She sat there for twenty minutes... an hour... she didn't know how long, and... a solution came to her. The situation was now beyond her control. She could no longer accept responsibility for what had happened. She would have to take it to someone else.

That someone was Donald Hemingway. It might seem strange that it was Donald Hemingway who came to her mind. It wasn't, when you followed her thinking processes.

Donald Hemingway was a balanced person, a man who was accustomed to weighing the problems of others, to finding solutions from an objective point of view. And Donald Hemingway cared for Laura Atwill. Cecily's intuition told her that. She dismissed Donald's attitude toward Laura in the past week, knowing that it was a misunderstanding, that prompted it.

She must still have had faith in Locke, she thought, or she wouldn't be going to see Donald Hemingway.

In Donald's old-fashioned private office at the rear of the bank where they would not be disturbed, she laid the necklace in his hand and told him the story.

She told him how she had first found Locke. She told him other things that revealed more than she knew but she did not tell him in words that she loved Locke. She was as honest as she could be. She told him about the incident of Lady Rathbone's loss, took the responsibility for Laura's going to Locke's cabin. She told him everything that she knew about the night before.

When she finished, Donald was silent for a few minutes, drawing thoughtfully on his pipe.

"Why did you come to me with this?" he asked finally.

"Because... because I want your help. I want you to tell me the right thing to do. And... and I want you to find some way out of it without calling in the police. You see... I... I don't do. I know that on the face of it, all, he appears in a very bad light, and yet... yet I don't believe he's guilty. I don't believe he is a thief!"

"Don't you, my dear?" He smiled slowly.

"No!"

"I don't know him," he said, "but I'm inclined to trust your judgment of people. Also, I'm grateful to you for making me see myself in an unpleasant light."

His remark surprised Cecily. "I don't understand..."

He got up and took his hat from a peg near the door. He held the door open for her.

"About Mrs. Atwill," he said, "I'm going to apologize to her."

At that moment Cecily's concern was not for Laura's more personal predicament. "But what about the..."

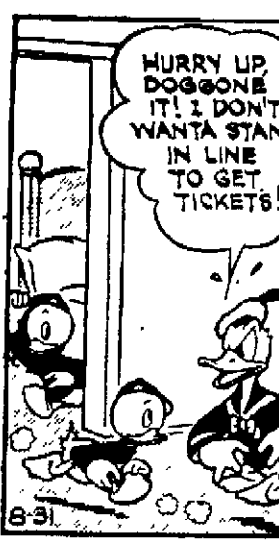

"The handkerchief you found?" he asked blandly. "I'll drop in at the Yacht Club on my way out to Mrs. Atwill's and leave it in the owner's locker."

"Oh, thank you," Cecily couldn't say more. The weight dropping away from her shoulders left her weak.

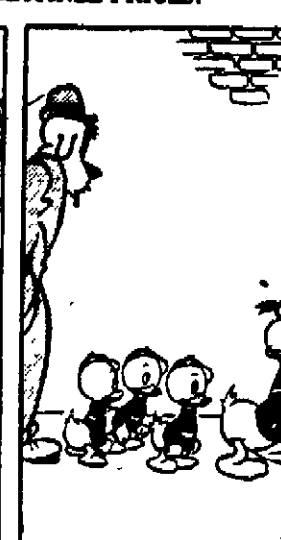

"And my dear, I suggest that you have luncheon with us if Mrs. Atwill can join us." In a lower voice he said, "I think we should ask her advice."

Success is the thing that some are content to envy in others, while some achieve it for themselves.

Rafferty showed the proper spirit: Mr. Dolan—When you're whipped you ought to say you've had enough.

Rafferty—If I've the strength left to say I've had enough, I'm not whipped yet.

A bull may be dumb but he understood the red flag before the rest of the world.

Diner (ordering breakfast)—Two eggs, poached medium soft, buttered toast not too brown,

Two men there live in every town, With lives as like as nuts of brown; But the one wears a smile, the other a frown; The one looks up and the other looks down. They work side by side. When night comes along Smiles starts for his home with a snatch of a song, Happy in knowing his day's work is through; Grouch only thinks of the chores to do. And thus through life they go along, Grouch with a grunt, Smiles with a song. One always happy, the other one blue; And now, dear friends, which one are you?

Financial and Commercial

Mixed Trend in World Markets

With definite news lacking during business hours yesterday as to the status of affairs in Europe, world markets more or less marked time and a mixed trend was shown.

On the London market Tuesday's advance continued although trading was not heavy. Both industrial and rail averages advanced, the former being up 1.6 points. American securities again were quoted, but trading was difficult as registration of stocks with the Bank of England not yet had been completed. On the Amsterdam Bourse stocks rallied and were strong at the close, but there was an all around reaction following the official close of the market. Following an easier opening on the Paris Bourse, resistance was shown, but business was restricted because of lack of distribution of the mail. The Berse closed cheerful. In London the government decided to appropriate all proceeds from the sale of newly mined gold above 150s per fine ounce, in order to check speculation arising from the high price of gold.

On the New York Exchange stocks opened above Tuesday's closing prices, but worked lower during the day, with trading restricted to a total of 500,000 shares. At the close industrial and the Dow-Jones averages showed a loss of 1.23 points for the day, to 136.16. Rails dropped .28 point, to 26.48 and utilities were off .06 point, to 25.04.

Commodity markets were decisive, as a whole being slightly off for the day. Cotton opened firm but reacted and showed losses of five to nine points at the close. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged, but showed strength, moving against the general trend. Demand for sugar was good. The "war on nerves" has brought flour buyers into the market.

The British government has agreed to buy, directly from the Canadian Wheat Board, wheat estimated to total 5,000,000 bushels.

Some earnings reports: Kansas City Power, net of $3,701,060 for year ending July 31 vs. net of $4,153,110 in previous year. In the seven months ending July 31, the company reported a net of $588,101, 78 cents a share, vs. net of $666,165, 91 cents a share, in same period in 1938. Last year, six months to July 31, net of $579,459 vs. net of $457,292 in 1938. Media Mining Co. loss in the June quarter of $15,183, vs. net profit in the same quarter last year of $26,828.

Steel ingot production for the week ended August 28 is estimated at 63 per cent of capacity. There are some indications of a check in the recent summer rise in business generally. Thus chain store sales in July were three per cent below June and a year ago compared with the two per cent rise shown during the first seven months of the year. Men's wear chains, which showed a seven per cent gain over last year in the first seven months, had July sales one per cent under the 1938 month.

The decline was a more seasonal one from June. July refrigeration sales showed more than seasonal output last week fell nearly 13,000,000 kwh from the previous week, which, however, was a record high.

Justice Department is filing a suit against 13 major motion picture firms and 54 of their officers for alleged violations of a consent decree entered in 1930, intended to end "monopolistic" practices in favor of Fox West Coast Theatres.

Some increase in activity in rail equipment field is noted. D. & H. is inquiring for 1,000 freight cars. Central will order 2,000 freight cars. Boston & Maine has purchased two locomotives. Chicago & Northwestern will spend $1,100,000 for new passenger equipment.

Britain Mobilizes Her Naval Forces

Hitler's newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, declared creation of the all-powerful council "demonstrates the firm determination of the Fuehrer to be prepared for every possibility and not to depart a hair's breadth in standing up for our rights."

The Lokai Anzeiger said: "Poland still gambles. Mobilization was conceived as a trump card. Now its only remaining card is direct action, and for such an eventuality the Reich is most thoroughly prepared."

In Poland, scene of near-general mobilization of more than 2,000,000 men, an official communiqué said Germany's "policy of aggression" had "left no doubt about the fact that Poland is endangered."

The pro-government newspaper Express Poranny said: "A bad neighbor has come to the gates of the serene Polish republic and the fact indicates that after Polish diplomacy has done everything it can to maintain peace, the Polish armed forces will have to play their role."

The Warsaw radio broadcast several times last night that the population of the capital "must get used to living under war conditions."

It was understood in Warsaw that the city would continue total blackouts at night until further notice.

Pope Pius XII summoned the papal secretary of state, Luigi Cardinal Maglione, to his summer palace, Castel Gandolfo.

On his return to Vatican City, Cardinal Maglione handed a written note to the ambassadors to the Holy City from Italy, France, Germany and Poland and to the British minister. He also saw the papal nuncio to Italy and the Yugoslav, Hungarian and Rumanian ministers.

'Squads Right!' No Longer to Sound In Army Maneuvers

By EDDY GILMORE

Washington, Aug. 31 (AP)—Beginning with tomorrow's reveille, that old army command—"squads right!"—will be just a memory. The present European crisis, incidentally, didn't kill it. It just died of old age.

"Squads right!" is something that Frederick the Great thought up. Arranging soldiers in squads and marching them straight at the enemy guns was a good system—in his time.

It dislodged the opposition and drove it back—that is, if you had enough men and ammunition. Military books don't say so, but Frederick the Great never was in that first squad, which of course gave him an opportunity to study results.

The modern machine gun, fired by a single soldier, can send out 250 doses of death a minute. Also, the army can get the same results as "squads right!" in a different way. The officer in command can yell:

"Column right!"

Then he can halt the troops and say "right face."

The new arrangement means no drastic drill changes from the parade ground to the battlefield, which will make it easier on all concerned—except the enemy gunners.

Tomorrow also will see the end of "parade rest," which the army now admits didn't rest anyone.

"Port arms"—as now executed—will go, too. No more will the infantryman flip his rifle into the air and smack it with his hand. It sounded fine, but it often was tough on the fellow to the left. Especially if there were bayonets.

Drilling will be easier after today, but a big army problem still remains—how to make a rookie remember which is right and which is left. You'd be surprised how many don't know.

Adolf Hitler concentrated economic, financial and administrative power into the hands of a "defense of the realm" cabinet shortly before Great Britain's latest secret crisis note was handed to his representatives. The cabinet includes (left to right-top), Dr. Hans Heinrich Lammers and Walther Funk, minister of economics; (left to right-bottom), Wilhelm Frick, minister of interior; and Rudolf Hess, Hitler's deputy party leader.

Flatbush Youth Held By New Jersey Police

Early this morning a telegram from the Camden, N. J., police department, to Sheriff Molyneux, stated that the Jersey police were holding in custody Eugene Wood, 17, of the Flatbush road. It was stated that young Wood had a 1930 Ford sedan which he claimed had been purchased from a neighbor, Peter Pettit, but that the registration plates had been stolen in Kingston.

A checkup by Deputy Sheriff McCullough disclosed that Pettit had sold the car to Wood for $50.

Leventhal Changes Interior of Building

Extensive alterations and improvements are under way on the entrance hall and second floor of the Leventhal building at 280 Wall street.

When completed the front of the second floor will embrace a fine modern dental suite of five rooms, while at the rear Attorney Joseph Avis will have attractive new offices to accommodate his legal business.

The hallway has been completely refinished, with oak paneling along the sides, walls redecorated and stairs retreaded.

Lawyer Avis' new suite of offices has been completed. Not only has he obtained needed conveniences but the offices have been redecorated, oak paneling placed around the sides of the rooms, built-in bookcases installed and other improvements carried out to make an attractive suite.

Work on the dental offices will be completed some time in the latter part of September. Mr. Leventhal says that they will comprise one of the finest and most modern equipped offices along the Hudson river, with furnishings and equipments of the very latest. They will be occupied by Dr. A. Lipskar, son-in-law of H. Leventhal, who came to Kingston after an experience of 21 years in New York city. It is stated that Dr. Lipskar will retain his office in New York city, probably spending four days a week at his new office in Kingston.

While cleaning the third floor of the Laip building, Paul Laine of New York city and former Canisteo resident, discovered a painting of the village made approximately 100 years ago. It is believed to have been done by Laine's great-aunt, Clara Bartlett.

Martha Dean Plans Week-End Visit

Martha Dean, widely known radio commentator, who broadcasts daily over Station WOR at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, announced Wednesday afternoon that she would be the week-end guest of Mayor and Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman at their home on West Chestnut street in Kingston, and that she would be pleased to meet the women of Kingston at a tea at the mayor's home on Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock.

So many women of Kingston have since indicated a desire to meet Martha Dean that arrangements have been made for her radio fans to meet her that afternoon.

Martha Dean also broadcasts over Station WABC from coast to coast under her real name of Mary Margaret McBride.

During her week-end visit in Kingston she will be taken on several automobile and hiking trips in the Catskills by Mayor and Mrs. Heiselman. Upon her return to New York next week, probably on Tuesday, she will broadcast for 40 minutes over Station WOR telling the world about the charm and beauty of the Catskill mountain area and the advantages of Ulster county as a recreation center.

This year at the Apple Blossom Festival in Ulster county she came to Kingston at the invitation of the mayor and later gave two broadcasts describing the festival and old Colonial houses of Kingston.

Travel Girl Travels

Miami, Fla. (AP)—A big Miami department store reported $85 stolen from the travel bureau desk. The theft occurred when the girl in charge went to a customer at a far counter on telephone instructions—from a department head, she assumed. The management figured the call was placed by the thief from a telephone booth through whose glass door the travel desk could be seen.

Bremen Sails Minus Passengers; Bermuda Boat Leaves for Britain

New York, Aug. 31 (AP).—The 10,000,000 Nazi liner Bremen sailed today for Europe, bound after a rigid inspection by American authorities that kept her at a New York pier for days past her sailing date.

The 898-foot vessel, examined from top to bottom to make certain she carried no armaments, possible offensive use in the event of a European war, had no passengers aboard as she steamed on the bay last night.

The ship's band blared the "Deutschland" and "Deutschland" as the Bremen slipped into the Hudson, but the usual ceremony of leaving-taking was absent. A few of the crew shouted "Heil Hitler" and the ship dipped her bows in an exchange with the French liner Normandie, but that was all. Only the navigation lights shone in the twilight. Port lights were dark.

The Normandie, at an adjoining pier, was free to sail at the same time, but remained in New York harbor for a few days. The ship was also sailing eastward about the time as the Bremen, but her customs officials, were the hard-White Star's Aquitania, the Anchor line's Transylvania, both British.

Aquitania Convoy. There were reports, lacking confirmation, that two British navy ships were standing out to sea to accompany the Aquitania home. Along her 434 passengers was Ronald Lindsay, recently released as British ambassador to the United States.

Radio messages to the liner were unanswered. Her ports were closed. The Transylvania, with nearly 1,000 passengers, carried a supply of handbags for possible defensive use about the bridge when she reached European waters.

The Furman liner Queen of Bermuda, withdrawn from the New York-Bermuda run apparently for service to Europe, received clearance papers and sailed at 5 a. m. (E. S. T.) today for an unannounced destination, believed to be England. She thus abandoned the Bermuda route.

10 Days for Intoxication
Charles William Edwards, alias Edward Robbins, 28, of Rosendale, was arrested Wednesday by Trooper Klein on a charge of public intoxication. Justice William B. Carr committed him to the Ulster county jail for 10 days in default of a fine of $10.

Col. Otto Theide, of Newburgh, commanding officer of the 156th Field Artillery, left, and Capt. Charles Behrens of Kingston, Regimental Adjutant, proudly display the pennant presented to the 44th Division at the War Games in Plattsburg for meritorious service. The local 156th Field Artillery was a unit in the 44th Division.

Gen. Butler Hits Old War Debts

Boston, Aug. 31 (AP).—Major General Smedley Butler, U. S. Marine Corps, retired, told the Veterans of Foreign Wars today there would be no war in Europe until Britain and France were convinced that this nation would "come in and pay the bills as it did in the last war."

He asserted that "not a single drop of American blood should ever be spilled except in America," and added there were only two things for which Americans should be permitted to fight—defense of home and the bill of rights.

Butler advocated a policy of building up a national defense "so tight that even a rat couldn't crawl through."

Declaring the last World War cost this country $100,000,000,000, Butler shouted: "And what the hell did anyone in this room get out of it?"

He said "they will fight in Europe eventually, but now is a good time for us to prepare to stay out of it."

The veteran soldier advocated keeping in the hand of Congress the power to determine this country's stand in the event of war, adding that "those boys have to go home and face their constituents every two years and they'll do what the people want."

Appreciates Assistance To 4-H Club at Fair

County 4-H Club Agent Edmund Bower wishes through The Freeman to thank the merchants and business men of Kingston and especially the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., for the valued assistance they gave 4-H workers at the recent county fair.

The work of the following, who acted as judges for the Home-making department exhibits, is also greatly appreciated: Miss Dorothy Fuller, Mrs. Helen Davenport, Miss Doris Schaffrick, Miss Mary Davis, Miss Adela Andrews, Miss Gertrude Henry and Miss Maynard.

$25 Fine for Larceny

Haya Glauberman, 32, of 12-14 Avenue K, New York city, was arrested at Phoenix Wednesday by Troopers Dunn and Maish, the charge being petit larceny. Arraigned before Justice William Weyman, she was fined $25 and in default of the cash was committed to the Ulster county jail for 25 days. On her release she faces a charge of cruelty to animals.

Bugle and Store Teeth
Wellston, O. (AP).—"Store teeth" have silenced the bugles of Legion Post No. 371. The Ohio American Legion News reported that the post's drum and bugle corps ceased to function because so many members had false teeth, a thing which makes bugling a difficult feat.

Officials Search for Spy Suspects

Philadelphia, Aug. 31 (AP).—Identity of a German-speaking couple—a fair-haired man and a well-groomed woman—who drove up to a Delaware river dock under cover of darkness in a long black limousine, hired a launch and boarded the German freighter Wiegand without authority after the missing ship cleared port was sought today by customs officers.

The couple returned to shore after an hour's visit. A pilot who took the Wiegand down river from Philadelphia Saturday said her captain received a short-wave radio message as he neared open sea, turned around abruptly and anchored off Marcus Hook, Pa.

There the two mysterious visitors came aboard. The freighter sailed out of the Delaware river Sunday with

Game Washed Out

New York, Aug. 31.—A driving rain washed out the New York Giants' double-header with the St. Louis Cardinals and removed one game permanently from the Giants-Card schedules. One of today's games will be played at St. Louis when the Giants make their final tour of the west next month, but the other game will have to be cancelled because no date for playing it off is available.

Airplane Explodes

Bergen, Norway, Aug. 31 (AP).—A foreign airplane exploded and fell into the sea near the island of Lenoey Fjell, southwest of here, today. Three bodies were recovered. Norwegian authorities expressed belief the plane might have been British, perhaps catapulted from a North sea aircraft carrier.

clearance papers for Norfolk, Va. It has been unreported since. A. Raymond Raff, collector of the Philadelphia port, said the Wiegand violated U. S. maritime laws by failing to touch at Norfolk and that he would have claim for the government the $50,000 bond posted to cover its stay in American waters.

Milk Price Seen Fixed at $2.15

New York, Aug. 31 (AP).—Erskine N. Harmon, federal-state milk administrator, said today the new contract approved by the Dairy Farmers' Union might bring the blend price to about $2.15 per 100 pounds.

He said, however, there was no such guarantee in the contract and that his office had never mentioned the $2.15 figure.

"The price automatically moves up as production declines," he said, "and thus the price might go above or fall below $2.15 for milk delivered during August, September and October."

The contract established prices on certain classes of milk with a top of $2.60 for fluid milk, it was explained. Other classes would average this figure down to approximately $2.15, the price still dependent on production and sales.

The Borden Company said that, based on past sales, the blend price might reach $2.15 but that there could be no such guarantee. He expressed the same opinion as Harmon that production and sales would govern the situation.

Big Crowd Cheers Recall Petition

At the taxpayers' expense they "caused the policemen and firemen" to throw poison gas and high pressure streams of water into the faces of their fellow citizens.

They denied the citizens the right to petition.

"They violated and ignored" the provision of the charter "in creating the office of deputy mayor and in appointing non-residents to positions of authority."

"Maverick has shown himself incompetent and temperamentally unfit" to serve as mayor.

In granting the permit for the communist meeting Maverick said he believed the right of free speech could not be denied to any group regardless of its belief.

Colonials Win 3rd Straight On Lay's Triple in 9th, 5-4

Kingston Police Lose Game At Newburgh Wednesday 15-3

Lieut. James V. Simpson's Kingston police baseball team suffered a 15-3 defeat yesterday at Newburgh in its second game of the season with the tossers of Chief Brown.

Having bowed to the Simpsons earlier in the season, at the opening of the new Kingston stadium, the Newburghers were set on revenge yesterday, and their idea clicked.

Emil Goff, a newcomer to the Newburgh pitching staff, assumed the hurling role, and after the first inning had the Colonials in a cleft stick. Besides their failure at the plate, the Kingstonians committed five errors, but didn't help their cause for victory.

Fred Fatum started on the hill for the Simpson clan, but failed to show as impressively as he did the day he stopped the Newburghers cold at the municipal stadium. The down river tossers piled up Fatum's first run, at the end of the second frame, and he gave way to Bill Messing.

Messing, listed on the roster of the Kingston club as a catcher, turned in a fair performance during his stay on the hill, but it was too late to overcome the big lead even though the game was young.

Goff, the Newburgh hurler, started unimpressively, as the Colonials' pavement pounders got to him for their three runs in the first inning.

The Leonard brothers accounted for Kingston's first two runs. Ed, president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, singled, and Bill clouted a hard one that was good for the circuit bringing Ed home.

For Kingston's other run, Tom McGrane singled, Wes Cramer connected and Frank Sammons drove in Mac with a one-base blow.

"I want to know..."

"It's not that I'm just curious. But I have the average American desire to know the facts. I want to know the whole story—all about it, and the truth when I read. That's why I'm a regular reader of the Kingston Freeman's informative columns."

With the score knotted at 4-4 last night at Municipal Stadium Charlie Lay poked a long triple into deep right center pushing over Francello with the deciding marker for the Colonials against the Texas Rangers. The final count was 5 to 4. Lay's tremendous clout extended the Davemen's streak to three straight.

The second last night game of the season will be staged at the stadium on Sunday when the Troy Beercats, now leaders in the New York State League, come here. The 'Cats will probably show Mark Filley, ex-International League hurling star against either Brown or Neff. Game time is 8:30. Next Wednesday the curtain will come down on nocturnal ball with another big attraction on tap.

Up until Lay's hefty smack in the ninth frame last night Big Joe Brown and Buddy Zoldack had been hooked up in a tight pitching duel with the Texan hurler having a little the better of it. Zoldack, with his fast ball blazing across the platter, whiffed 14 while Brown fanned 11. Zoldack was enjoying a 4 to 2 lead in the eighth when the Colonials tied it. Then in the ninth came the pay-off hit.

Kingston hopped off to a 1 to 0 lead in the first on "Red" McLean's drag bunt and Joe Hoffman's hard single off Zoldack's glove which bounced out into right field. But the Rangers rammed back in the second and third with solo markers to take the lead. A walk to Manzo, who pilfered second and third, followed by Zoldack's groundout to Van Etten tied the count. In the third Ray Conklin worked Brown for a pass but was quickly wiped out as Mele prodded a single into left. Conklin, trying to make third on the sock was caught, Tiano to Husta.

Another Tie On the throw-in from Tiano, Mele scampered into second and scored later as Norm Stewart slashed a singleton past Charlie Francello into right. That nip and tuck duel continued though as the Colonials picked up another in the fourth. DuBois' high three bagger and a passed ball knotted the count for the second time.

Following this brief scoring spree both Brown and Zoldack went to work and kept the tie until the Texans' seventh. A double into left by Grant, his second, started the fireworks in the lucky seventh. When Stein bunted Brown scooped the pill and heaved over Francello's head covering first for an error. On the toss Grant registered. To insure their victory a little more the Rangers pushed over another in the eighth. Spennrath's walk, Tiano's miff of Davis' hoist and Grant's scratch single did the trick.

The Colonials poured back in the eighth to tie the score again. Van Etten walked to open the frame. Brown, swinging with the count 0-3 was waved to first as Grant interfered with his swing. Husta bunted both around. Zoldack found himself in a minute as he whiffed McLane but while Hoffman was batting Van Etten romped in on a wild pitch. Hoffman then walked. The Colonials worked a double steal with Brown scoring the tying run and Hoffman moving into second. DuBois was thrown out by Norm Stewart to end the inning.

Lay Stars Then came the ninth. Brown had little trouble with the Texans, being helped with a double play. Francello, after Tiano fanned, singled. Charlie Lay, swinging with all power, slammed a beauty into deep right center scoring Francello with the deciding run of the game.

Slugging Mite From the West Is Golf's New Gallery Cutie

Darien, Conn. (AP)—Youth, invariably ready for a fling, scored pretty decisively in the recent women's national golf championship at Wee Burn—in fact monopolized the tournament at the finish.

Three of the four semi-finalists in the classic were less than 21 years old.

Pretty, auburn-haired Betty Jameson of San Antonio, 20, won the championship by eliminating 19-year-old Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta in a battle between the youngest finalists in the championship's 43-year-old history.

Pastor-Louis a Race, Maybe! . . . Zano Rests in New Paltz

There's sadness at the police station today. . . Why not! . . . Lieut. James V. Simpson's police tossers lost at Newburgh yesterday, just when he counted on them winning from the Hill City Coppers for the fifth time in a row. . . But, the same crew can't win all the time. . . So, hold on boys, there's another game coming, if not this season, next. . . A Colorado Springs sports writer writes: "If I were promoting the Pastor-Louis encounter, I'd provide a second arena in New York, and then install seats all along the route so that everybody could see the race."

Tonight that second ball game All Stars battle goes on at the new Municipal Stadium, weather permitting. . . And there should be plenty of thrills for the customers. . . Jack Robins, veteran baseballer, who has charge of one club, and Nick Kaslich and Gus Steigerwald, bosses of the opposing outfit, are pulling strong for victory. . . The Robins clan won the first encounter. . . Amos Alonzo Stagg and Pop Warner, whose playing and coaching careers total almost 100 years, will be on the opposite sides of the field, October 20, when San Jose State Teachers and College of the Pacific clash at Stockton, Cal.

Martin Petersen, the Danish apple grower from New Paltz, who looked like a good amateur heavyweight prospect in the Golden Gloves last winter, entertained Tommy Zano and Sammy Offerman last night about boxing until after the fruit season. . . Zano is resting in New Paltz with his right hand in a cast. . . He hopes to be able to fight on September 18 at Newport News, Va. . . Good luck to Evelyn Dolson and her Emerick Ladies Bowling League for the coming season. . . She was elected president of the night. . . Ad Jones and his bowling stars will meet another local group of crack rollers at Central Recreation alleys tonight for the grand opening of the runways this season. . . Starting time is 8:30. . . Johnny Ferraro and John Sangi, the props, will be on hand to greet all visitors.

Trout Season Ends 4 Golf Favorites In Hershey Play

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 31 (AP)—Trout fishermen put away their rods and flies at midnight tonight, ending a season during which game protectors claim they spent more time rescuing drouth-stranded fish than in catching law violators.

While comparatively few trout were taken in the larger streams, none were found in many of the dried-up tributaries, Secretary John L. Halpin, of the state conservation department, reports. Figures are not available.

"It was a poor season right from the start April 1," Halpin explained. "On the second day fishing was snowed out statewide. Game protectors, particularly in the Kingston division—Orange, Sullivan, Dutchess and Ulster counties—and in southern Albany, parts of Schoharie, Greene and Columbia counties, report they were busier this year salvaging fish from dried ponds and streams than ever before."

The five-month trout season's ending is effective tonight in all except Essex county, where it ends at midnight Monday, to give Adirondack fishermen a last fling over the Labor Day week-end. The lake trout season ends in Lake George at midnight tomorrow, and other places in the state September 10, except in Lakes Erie and Ontario, where it is continuous.

Louis May Make Some Money By Just Training for Pastor

Detroit (AP)—Being the heavyweight boxing champion of the world is expensive—take it from Joe Louis, the present title holder—and while the crown is worth thousands of dollars there are plenty of "incidentals" that cut into the pile of cash received for a bout.

At the moment Louis and his managers, John Roxborough and Julian Black, are preparing to open training quarters at suburban Northville for the champion's fight with Bob Pastor, the former New York University football player, at Detroit on September 20. Because Louis is a Detroit native and has never fought in his home town since gaining the title, Roxborough believes that for the first time the gate receipts at the camp will at least equal the training costs of the champion.

"The most money we ever took in a training camp was $6,200 at Pompton Lakes, N. J.," says

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

The race in the American League has become so dull that the teams now are playing "give-away." Even the world champion New York Yankees are taking part.

The Yankees dropped the second straight last night, in a 4-3, 10-inning debacle which must have amused the 35,000 spectators present at Cleveland, a town which by this time should have a well-developed sense of baseball humor.

Three pitchers muffed the Bronx Bombers with four hits, two of them bringing a run in the first inning. Hal Trosky hit his 23rd homer with one on in the fourth to lift the Tribe in front and then the boys started to play—but not baseball.

In the seventh Joe Gordon walked, went to second on an error, to third on a sacrifice and scored on Al Milnar's wild pitch. In the eighth Bruce Campbell made a three-base blunder on a fly by Red Rolfe, who scored on a single. In the ninth Lefty Gomez walked a batter with the bases loaded to tie the score, and in the tenth Ben Chapman was walked by Johnny Murphy and subsequently scored the winning run on Ken Keltner's third single.

It was the second setback in two days for Murphy, who blew a game at Detroit the day before by giving two doubles in the ninth. The Boston Red Sox passed up the chance to clinch another nick in New York's 12-game lead by tossing a 7-6 decision to the Tigers although getting three home runs and outlasting Detroit, 12-8.

After Earl Averill homered with one on in the first, the Red Sox got to Rookie Freddy Hutchinson in the third and fourth for a three-run homer by Ted Williams and circled clouts by Jim Tabor and Moe Berg, the latter's first homer since 1935.

Detroit got back two runs on one hit in the sixth and won the game in the eighth with three runs on two walks and two singles, Williams letting the second of these get through him.

Two for A's The Philadelphia Athletics took a doubleheader from the St. Louis Browns, 9-8 and 2-0, cramming nine runs into the seventh inning of the first game with Sam Chapman getting a home run and a double and Frank Hayes hitting a homer with two on. An error let in the A's first run in the nightcap, which was called after seven innings because of darkness. The only games of the day which produced something near the perfection expected of big league baseball saw the Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators divide a double bill. The veteran Ted Lyons returned to the lineup after being out 16 days and pitched a four-hit, 5-2 victory for the Sox in the opener. Lefty Joe Kraskauskas won the afterpiece, 4-3, with seven-hit hurling and lofted a sacrifice fly which scored the winning run in the ninth inning.

All the games in the National League were rained out.

New York Giants Whitewash College All-Stars by 9 to 0

Chicago, Aug. 31 (AP)—Touchdowns or no touchdowns, football's professional champions now are even with the College All-Stars in their 10-year-old series of pre-season charity battles.

The New York Giants, pro champions, gave the All-Stars a sound lesson in gridiron versatility last night before 14,456 customers to win, 9 to 0, on three field goals.

This was the second time the pro champions defeated the collegians, chosen for the game from 1938's seniors in a nationwide poll, and the second time they did it without a touchdown. In 1935, the Chicago Bears won, 5 to 0.

The series now stands all square at two victories apiece and two ties.

The All-Stars' vaunted passing attack, starring such notable amateurs as Davey O'Brien of Texas Christian, Sid Luckman of Columbia, Billy Patterson of Baylor and Johnny Pingel of Michigan State never quite came off. Each time the college boys began to roll toward an alert Giant squelched the threat with a pass interception.

The pros caught five opposing passes in all.

Field Goals Do It The All-Stars, obviously well schooled against running plays by Head Coach Elmer Layden of Notre Dame and his assistants, did a good job of keeping the pros away from the goal line, but they couldn't hold their rivals out of field goal range.

The Giants first drove into booting range in the first period. Ward Cuff, former Marquette star, failed the first time from the 47-yard line, but later in the same period came through from the 54. In this period the All-Stars never got out of their own back yard.

The Pros made it 6-0 in the second period. 31-year-old Ken Strong, one-time New York University great, firing one through the uprights from the 22-yard line. After a scoreless third in which O'Brien intercepted a Giant pass on his own nine-yard stripe to block the finishing drive, the Giants finished the scoring in the final period. Strong again contributed the three-point from the 41-yard line, coming into the game only long enough to perform his specialty act.

Tackles Mountain Again Millinocket, Me., Aug. 31 (AP)—Donn Fendler, 12-year-old Rye, N. Y., Boy Scout, indicated yesterday he would venture again up the dangerous slopes of Mount Katahdin where he was lost eight days last month. Young Fendler, completely recovered from his terrifying experience, visited this town with his uncle, Arthur Ryan, of New York city, on the way to camping grounds at the foot of Katahdin.

This evening at 8 o'clock in the new stadium Jack Robins' Stars collide with the Kaslich Stars in the second City League All-Star contest. Beaten 3-2 in the first thriller, the Kaslich Stars will be gunning to avenge their loss in this game for the players' pool and for Johnny Berardi, Jones Dairy rightfielder. Berardi, popular Dairyman's gardener, broke his ankle in last month's Boiceville game and has been laid up since.

Trimmed 3-2 in the Bucky Ashdown memorial game, Nick Kaslich's squadron, which will be handled by Gus Steigerwald, is expected to square the count. Jack Schatzel, Jones Dairy first sacker, will replace Bill Bush, who turned in a fine emergency performance in the initial contest. Billy Gavis, flashy Grunenwald's recruit, and Jimmy Ashdown, Dairyman's center fielder, will also be newcomers in the Kaslich roster.

"Gavis will probably start at second," said the Kaslich boss. "I'll use Jimmy Ashdown and probably Milly Berardi in the garden to strengthen the attack," continued the popular billiard maestro. Greatly bolstered by the addition of the three two-loop stars, Nick's outfit is favored to take over the Robins crew.

Davis, McLean Duel Tonight's tilt will feature Al "Sluggo" Davis and "Red" McLean, foremost City League sluggers. Davis, Boiceville bomber, captured the second half batting championship with a natty .486 average. McLean, clever Indies shortstop, clipped the pill at an even .500 pace for the first half championship and paced along at a 47 last half clip. Davis will be in center field for Jack Robins' crew while McLean will patrol shortstop for the Kaslich-Steigerwald forces.

Prospects of a hurling duel between "Schoolboy" Bush and George Celuch, rival Little World Series moundmen, is expected to bring city loop fans flocking to the stadium. Following the usual custom, all City League officials will once again donating their services.

Both All-Star squadrons clicked in sensational style during the first fray, unreeling a dramatic diamond duel. Tonight's tilt is expected to equal the initial fracas for thrill-packed action. Bing Van Etten, Andy Celuch, Chappie Van Derzee, and Jim Steigerwald compose the Robins infield. Sluggo Davis, Andy Celuch, and Charley Lay are expected to start in the garden with Vince Stoll catching.

Kaslich's Lineup Schatzel, Gavis, McLean and Kelder will make up the Kaslich infield with the youthful keystone sack combination expected to click in big-league style. Eddie Minasian, Jim Ashdown and Tommy Maines will snag 'em in the pastures with George Zadany donning the muck and mitt. All players are expected to be in uniform not later than 5:45. Umpire-in-chief Dulin will call 'em behind the plate and Bill "Pie" Murphy on the sacks.

Dutchess Fair to Close on Friday

The 95th annual Dutchess County Fair at Springbrook Park, Rhinebeck, will climax four record-breaking days Friday when Captain Jimmy Smith and his Squadron of Death present their death-defying acts before the grandstand tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Beginning at 2 p. m. in the afternoon and 7:30 at night, Smith will lead his troupe through a routine of stunts which includes smashing cars in head-on collisions, rolling them over and driving them away intact behind the steering wheel.

The several buildings of farm and commercial exhibits, and all other organizational displays, will be open for inspection until tomorrow night. The flower show, said to be the finest the fair has presented, concludes a popular display tomorrow when the fair officially closes the gates.

Organization Objects To Showing of New Film

Pittsburgh, Aug. 31 (AP)—Election of officers held attention of the Grand Army of the Republic's 73rd national encampment today while an affiliated organization started a drive to ban showing of the new movie, "Gone With the Wind."

The Daughters of Union Veterans declared in a resolution that production of the novel by Margaret Mitchell was "an outrageous attempt to palliate the treason of the south and smirch the reputation of General William T. Sherman."

"The war orders of the Confederate States prove conclusively the raiding and burning of the southern homes and supplies were done by the confederates themselves," asserted the resolution. "Were it not that young people will see the picture, it could be ignored, but it is unfair that our boys and girls should be given such a distorted view of what actually took place."

The Daughters, boasting a membership of 34,000, voted to have each of their state departments confer with local censors and "endeavor to stop the showing of the picture."

They also went on record in opposition to a proposed $25,000 federal appropriation for erection of a memorial to Confederate General Stonewall Jackson in West Virginia.

The veterans came through what probably was their last strictly military parade without casualty. Only one warrior, Jacob Mooker, 97, of Valparaiso, Ind., marched the entire seven miles of the parade route. Spurring the aid of army officers, he declared "Durn it, if I can't walk the full way what's the use in the marching at all." Many left ears in march past reviewing stands.

Kerhonkson Union School Will Open Next Tuesday

The Kerhonkson Union School will open Tuesday, September 5, at 9 a. m. All elementary pupils will report at that time. Those entering school for the first time must be five years old on or before the opening date, according to a Board of Education ruling. They should also be residents of Wawarsing School District No. 1. It is possible that others from the outlying districts will be admitted upon payment of tuition.

High School freshmen will report at 9 a. m. and also are requested to bring their credentials and birth certificates with them. Sophomores, juniors and seniors will meet in the auditorium at 1 o'clock.

Parents desiring special conferences are asked to visit the school on Wednesday or Thursday between 9 and 12 and also between 1 and 4. Other conferences may be arranged by telephone.

An additional enrollment in both divisions of the system is expected this year.

New York—The woods are full of prodigies these days, but not of prodigies like 9-year-old Lorin Maazel from California. Lorin is a symphonic conductor in very short pants, whose work before an orchestra has confounded the players themselves.

Lorin really conducts, as he demonstrated when he came on from Interlochen, Mich., with the National Music Camp to give the World's Fair a needed bath of symphonic music.

He is the young man who, when reproached gently for having let an adult orchestra make a mistake, or so without correcting them, declared in his strong, rather high-pitched boy voice:

"I heard them, all right, but I didn't want to stop them too often, because they might be annoyed. I'm just a boy, you know."

Lorin does more than merely conduct an orchestra. He does it all from memory, like Toscanini and Leopold Stokowski. He doesn't think anything of this—"you can learn two staves of music by heart when you play piano, can't you?" he demands.

"Well, I learn ten or more." He never rehearses from score, and when he conducts an accompaniment for a soloist he does that from memory.

Of Average Height
Lorin is wholly without self-consciousness, but he's not a usual youngster by any means. He is average in height, a little more substantial in build than common, and his head is a very little larger than most. His mother, who is Mrs. Lincoln Maazel of Los Angeles, does his wavy hair rather long.

"That's because he has big ears," she says.

Lorin also has big teeth, white strong ones. "I have to grow up to them," he says with a good wide grin.

The boy's eyes are, like those of most gifted children, the sort that look straight at you. He listens well, and his language is more adult than you'd expect, although he has trouble with a lot of long words. "Synchronize" is one—he talked with Heifetz when the violinist was making "They Shall Have Music" and Heifetz asked Lorin if he'd ever tried to synchronize. Lorin didn't know what he meant then. But he found out.

Studies The Stars
Lorin likes a large number of things. He plays violin and piano very well indeed, and with the others of his family can turn out a concert in no time. Mr. Maazel is a professional singer, and Mrs. Maazel plays piano. Lorin's oldest brother, in medical school, is a "cellist."

The boy also likes astronomy, and keeps up a correspondence with amateurs and professionals in that pursuit. The stars in New York are the same as in San Francisco, he remarks, "but they're in different places."

He likes both football and baseball, and this summer in Michigan he learned to swim "up to my head." By that he means he has mastered the art, all but the breathing, which still bothers him a little.

Likes Cycling and Dogs
Lorin also goes in for bicycling, but not your kind. It seems that his parents thought the Los Angeles streets unsafe for a 9-year-old on a two-wheeler, and refused to buy him one. So Lorin retired to the back yard with his tricycle, removed one of the small wheels, and taught himself to ride the remaining two.

Now, he remarks with a wicked grin at his mother, all the boys in the block beg to ride his lopsided two-wheeler.

Lorin is a pretty husky chap, and can take hard knocks easily. He can take orders, too. Without a trace of nervousness, he took a baton in hand and conducted an imaginary orchestra for a quarter of an hour with complete aplomb. Lorin likes people and music and stars, but particularly animals. Dogs are his favorites, although you might not guess it to hear the name he gave his German shepherd pup.

He calls her Duchess Wally Simpson Windsor Maazel.

Girl's Promise Puts Man in Jail Cell

Weehawken, N. J., Aug. 31 (AP)—Adolph Gmelin, 36, a restaurant manager, was in a jail cell today charged with attempted suicide and disorderly conduct after he left an hour-long perch near the top of the Hudson river Palisades on a girl's promise to "do anything if you'll come off of there."

Gmelin was seen on the ledge by New York Central Railroad, Policeman John Maddocks as he climbed a path up the Palisades yesterday afternoon.

"Don't come near me, or I'll jump," Gmelin told Maddocks. "The ledge is 150 feet above a railroad tunnel and overlooks the West Shore ferry terminal."

Maddocks called the fire department, which in turn called police. None could convince Gmelin to leave his precarious position on the precipice until Josephine Neuner, dark-haired, blue-eyed West New York waitress was brought to the scene.

Building Inspector Charles Buda, a spectator in a crowd estimated by police at 5,000, recognized Gmelin, phoned a friend and advised bringing Miss Neuner to the Palisades.

Tearfully, she pleaded with Gmelin, who married someone else 18 months ago, to come off the ledge.

"I'll take you back," she told him. He had been ordered out of the coffee shop in which Miss Neuner works earlier in the day when he sought to renew his attentions, she said.

When he came off the ledge he was seized by an officer.

FINANCE COMPANY

Guaranteed by Good Housekeeping as advertised therein

Our money, our loans, our requirements, our charges are all much the same as in other companies. What makes people prefer to do business with Personal? Is it the sympathetic, understanding way our manager greets the loaner; the friendly, smiling manner of our cashier when payments are received; the thoroughly "human" helpfulness of our whole office staff, when a borrower finds it difficult to make his regular payments? Why don't you come in and see?
